

The Story

There are two ponds in Zoomville, Orange and Blue. In July, fish started dying in both ponds. However, many more fish died in Orange pond, and they died over a longer period of time.

- In Orange pond, many fish died in July, and the high death rate continued through the end of September.
- In Blue pond, fewer fish died in July and August than in Orange Pond, and the death rate returned to normal by September.
- During the rest of the year the death rate in both ponds was low.
